

Personal Bio for Rich DuBose

Short Version

Rich DuBose worked 16 years as a pastor before specializing in the area of developing new resources and tools to enhance local church ministry. He is currently director of Church Support Services, which functions as the research and development entity for ministry in the Pacific Union Conference.

www.churchsupportservices.org

Medium Version

Rich DuBose began serving the Pacific Union Conference as a resource developer and provider on November 1, 1994. He is currently director of Church Support Services, which functions as the research and development entity for ministry in the Pacific Union. Some of his activities include developing new sharing brochures, online study guides, web outreach tools, publishing a quarterly idea newsletter, and producing a series of story videos that focus on creative ministries. Prior to coming to the Pacific Union Conference, DuBose served in pastoral and teaching capacities in Florida, Colorado and southern California, and is married to Linda Erickson DuBose. They have two adults children and two grandchildren.

Longer Version

Rich DuBose began serving the Pacific Union Conference as a resource developer and provider on November 1, 1994. He is currently director of Church Support Services, which functions as the research and development entity for ministry in the Pacific Union. Some of his activities include developing new sharing brochures, online study guides, web outreach tools, publishing a quarterly idea newsletter, and producing a series of story videos that focus on creative ministries.

DuBose served as associate pastor of the Azure Hills church in Grand Terrace, California, from 1990-1994. From 1984-1989 he was youth pastor of the Boulder church in Boulder, Colorado, and chaplain and senior Bible teacher at Campion Academy in Loveland, Colorado.

Before that (from November 1976 - December 1984) DuBose served as lead pastor of the Daytona church in Daytona, Florida, as the lead pastor of the Saint Augustine church in Saint Augustine, Florida, and as an intern pastor of the Florida Hospital church in Orlando, Florida.

A native of Tampa, Florida, DuBose received a Bachelor of Science degree from Andrews University, and a Master of Arts degree in Religion (Church and Ministry) from Loma Linda University.

DuBose, an accomplished musician, enjoys playing guitar, songwriting, sound engineering, photography, hiking, cross country skiing and writing. He has been published in Ministry Magazine, various websites and other Adventist journals. His music and art can be found at:
www.richdubose.com

Rich's wife, Linda Erickson DuBose, a freelance publisher, has worked as a registered dietitian, and is an alumna of Broadview Academy and Andrews University. The DuBoses have two adult children, Benjamin and Erika (Gladden).